

I am concerned at recent news that the Sinclair corporation is planning to suspend regular prime time programming prior to the forthcoming election to show instead a highly partisan film under the heading of news.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. It is not in the public interest when only one side of an argument or a position is presented. It assails the ability of thoughtful viewers to assess the facts and undermines our democracy

It also is an example of a crude abuse of power
If this can happen under current rules, it is an indication that media ownership rules need reviewing.

Sincerely,
Randa c Miranda-Diamond
